Software Directory - Database

The following is a directory of genealogical software that is available as of February, 2004. The information includes the companies e-mail address and website URL where available. This list is distributed as a convenience to CGS/CIG members and does not constitute a recommendation or endorsement of the given product by CGS/CIG.

The Database type program is used to store, arrange and sort much of the data you find during research of your family. It has special places to put information such as names, dates, places and just about anything you can think of. You can usually print out a multitude of reports using your stored data. The programs listed here run the gamut from small and simple to large and more complex.
